

Principals & teachers are pilots of Delhi Edu Revolution: Dy CM

ARGHYA BHASKAR

NEW DELHI: Principals and teachers of Delhi government schools are pilots of the Delhi Education Revolution which is being admired all over the world today, said Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia on Monday while interacting with the new cohort of 30 principals from Delhi government schools and education department officials who will be heading on a new journey of professional enrichment at the University of Cambridge, UK, next week.

Their visit is part of the Delhi government's flagship initiative to provide 8 days of leadership training to the principals at the Cambridge university and exposure to some of the world's best education practices being implemented at UK schools. This is the second cohort of the year and fourteenth so far that will be attending this training at the University of Cambridge from October 10 onwards.

While motivating the principals, the Deputy Chief Minister said, "Your hard work and efforts have made Delhi government schools the most preferred choice among the children and parents of Delhi."

He further advised them and said that they should go to Cambridge with an open mind to absorb their best practices and try to think of adapting those practices to help Delhi government schools for the better. In the case of digital technologies, they must focus on the purpose that is being resolved with their usage and how that can be incorporated in our system. A new research component has been added this year to expand the horizon of leadership training. This will help them become a lead learner and enhance their capabilities as a leader. Sisodia further said, "The University of Cambridge is known for developing the most unique assessment practices and during this visit to Cambridge our school principals will get an exposure to this and learn from it so that those assessment best practices can be adopted in Delhi too. This will help us develop student-centric assessment practices that will focus on reducing stress from students' lives."

NEW DELHI: A cohort of 30 principals from Delhi government schools and education department officials will head to the University of Cambridge, UK, for a leadership training program scheduled next week, government officials said on Monday. The visit is taking place as part of the Delhi government's training and leadership initiative that seeks to provide global exposure to principals.

Deputy chief minister Manish Sisodia who met the principals going for the training on Monday, said that the government wanted to provide advanced professional training and international-level exposure to principals so that they could learn from the best education systems in the world. "The University of Cambridge is known for developing the most unique assessment practices and during this visit to Cambridge, our school principals will get an exposure to this and learn from it so that those assessment best practices can be adopted in Delhi too. This will help us develop student-centric assessment practices that will focus on reducing stress in students' lives," said Sisodia.

कैंब्रिज जाएंगे स्कूल प्रमुख

नई दिल्ली। नेतृत्व सुधार कार्यक्रम के लिए दिल्ली के सरकारी स्कूलों के प्रमुख और प्रधानाचार्य नौ दिन के लिए यूके स्थित कैंब्रिज जाएंगे। इसको लेकर राज्य शैक्षिक अनुसंधान और प्रशिक्षण परिषद् ने परिपत्र जारी किया है। परिपत्र के अनुसार, अगले माह नौ अक्टूबर से लेकर 18 अक्टूबर तक इस कार्यक्रम का आयोजन होगा।
